Proof of Age Required For Pensions

If someone walked up to you and asked "how old are you?" it would be no trouble to give him an answer. But, if he asked you to prove your age, where would you stand?

According to the federal old-age security office in Edmonton, proving one's age isn't as easy as it seems. At least, it isn't so easy when the proof has to satisfy the government.

For the past week, the pensions office in the family allowance building, Edmonton, has been receiving applications for persons nearing their 70th birthdays. They are getting organized for the proposed new pension legislation, which will abolish the means test.

Assorted Documents

Proof of age must accompany every application. It sounds easy, because a birth certificate is the most conclusive proof. However, officials point out that many Canadians who have been around for 70 years have no birth certificates.

As a result, the pensions office has been receiving a varied collection of documents, books and certificates since applications were called for.

An analysis was made of 203 applications. Out of all the applicants, 82 sent birth certificates, and 30 submitted baptismal certificates. Both are acceptable.

Of the remainder, some were approved and some not. The others included 17 family Bibles, 18 marriage certificates, three military discharge papers, 15 naturalization certificates, six passports, six insurance records, two census records, four home-stead records, four school records and three immigration records.

C. L. Gillman, regional director of old-age security, says family Bibles are acceptable as proof of age so long as they meet certain requirements. If the Bible was printed before 1880, and the owner's name was written in before 1881, then he must be 70 years old.

However, if the Bible was printed later, for instance in 1901, and the owner's birth date was entered as 1881, then it cannot be taken as evidence of age.

Except for birth and baptismal certificates, there must be two proofs of age. That is, if other documents are submitted, they must corroborate each other. The evidence must be contained in an official document showing the age of the person at the time the document was prepared.

Mr. Gillman says that some applicants have sent in pages from Bibles, which show the owner's age. He says these are unacceptable unless a notary public certifies that they are true copies.

Half Are Approved

Mr. Gillman says that of 1,000 applications received since Aug. 3, 569 are being approved, 420 have been rejected for insufficient proof of age, and nine for insufficient proof of 20 years residence in Canada. Four have not qualified under the terms of the pension legislation.

When an application is rejected because of insufficient proof, the applicant is given a list of documents that will be accepted, and instructed to apply again.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Clark and small daughter Wendy have returned to Calgary after a visit at the Leigh Currie home.

Enid Jones spent last week with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A. Winfield of the Rodino district. Little Claudia Ramsay is home recovering from a tonsil operation. Mr. Bob Lukens is home after spending some time in the Mannville hospital.

Everybody is busy these days. The garden truck is ready to can and the crops are coming on. Hope the frost stays away for two weeks or so.

It was decided that an association be formed and that people interested in selling must be members. People are requested to be at the next meeting. The prize money not distributed last spring will be distributed at this meeting.

The D.A. was not present at the last meeting but at the next meeting he will be showing slides or films.

It is hoped by the executive and the senior directors that more boys and girls will join the club.

Health Services

THE VALUE OF extended health services and of preventing the occurrences of disease whenever possible is recognized everywhere today. As a result of the increased interest in preventative medicine many communicable diseases have been almost stamped out, and the effects of others have been modified by the use of modern drugs and serums. Widespread immunization and the many other services which go with the practice of preventative medicine have placed an added burden on public expenditures. In Canada both the Provincial and Federal governments administer health matters. Hospitalization plans, and public health services are managed by the provincial governments and vary in the different provinces, but throughout Canada there is continuous expansion in this work.

Fuller Use Of Grants

Many activities of the provincial health departments are made possible by grants of federal funds for these purposes. Recently Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Welfare announced that the national health program had been expanded to make federal funds available for a wider variety of uses by the provincial health departments, and to permit fuller use of the grants. Among the changes announced were the provision of funds for the building of hospital laboratories, grants for the building of nurses' residences and increased aid for out-patients departments and diagnostic service in hospitals.

Create Need For Expansion

The extension of federal financial aid, Mr. Martin said, would help the nation's hospitals to develop a good prevention program. "The hospital has wider opportunities than ever before," he pointed out, "in education, research, care of the sick and in public health. Wider opportunities bring heavier responsibilities for service, the minister added, and these responsibilities have been felt in all parts of the country. There has been difficulty everywhere in providing hospital space, nursing service and the many other facilities required by a growing population and rapidly-expanding health services. There is no doubt, however, but that all this signifies important social progress here, and health programs of the federal and provincial governments are resulting in widespread benefits to the Canadian people.

"We need a highway across the Dominion very badly," he said.

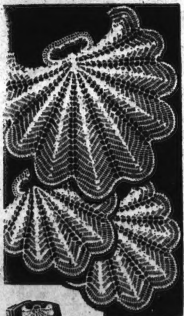

Mr. Wardle said he expects Quebec and Nova Scotia soon will join the other provinces in the agreement for construction of the highway.

Funny and Otherwise

Hustler—"I don't know what Billie does with his money. He was short yesterday and he's short again today."

Bustler—"Is he trying to hgv-row from you?"

"In what way?"

"It's the hardest thing in the world to make him admit I'm right when he knows I'm wrong."

A certain bishop was being patronized by a millionaire.

"I never go to church," the millionaire said.

"Perhaps you have noticed that?"

"Yes, I have noticed it," said the bishop gravely.

"Well, the reason I don't go to church is that there are so many hypocrites there."

"Oh, don't let that keep you away," said the bishop, smiling.

The stern father walked into the cycle dealer's shop.

"You sold my son a motorcycle some months ago and guaranteed to replace any parts within the first year he had it," he said.

"That's right," said the dealer.

"What parts need replacement?"

"My son's collar-bone, knee-cap, and all his front teeth," answered the father.

Maid—"I'm very sorry, Miss Brown said to tell you she is not at home."

Mrs. Cayenne—"That's all right. Just tell her I'm glad I didn't come."

Susie: "Mama, you know that vase you said had been handed down from generation to generation?"

Mother: "Yes, dear."

Susie: "Well, this generation just dropped it."

King: "If you looked at a postage stamp, how could you tell we were never going to lose a war?"

"Long," "I dunno."

Major: "I see two cocktails carried to your room every morning as if you had someone to drink with."

"Yes sir; one cocktail makes me feel like another man; and, of course, I'm bound to treat the other man."

Having been told that the noise of a thunderstorm was only the angels making their beds, Mary, a four-year-old, said next morning, "You know, Mummy, I didn't mind the noise when the angels made their beds last night, but I was cross when they couldn't make up their minds whether to turn the lights on or off."

Nelle—"Probably the same thing we do."

Helem—"Oh—aren't they awful?"

Passenger—"Which end of the car do I get off?"

Conductor—"Either one. It stop at both ends."

New Act Will Give Indians More Equality

OTTAWA.—New legislation to help Canada's 136,000 Indians on the road to self-government goes into force in September, Citizenship Minister Harris announced.

The new Indian act, first major overhaul of Indian legislation in 71 years, was passed at the last session of parliament.

Charges of the state, the Indians now will have greater powers over their own property and their own affairs, Mr. Harris said.

"The aim of the new act is to bring the Indians, by progressive steps, into a position of social, political and economic equality with other Canadians," the minister added.

Some of the changes:

1. Indian bands now can be authorized to have complete control over the spending of band and land revenue money.

2. The right to vote in hand-count elections is extended to Indian women.

3. Loans, previously restricted to the purchase of farming and fishing equipment and kindred needs, now can be granted for the purchase of motor cars, fencing materials, gas and oil, repairs and for the payment of wages.

4. Special schools will be established in some cases for the instruction of Indian children living off reserves. In other cases, arrangements will be made to make Indian children trained in regular municipal schools.

Needy Served Free Food At Woman's Market

VICTORIA, B.C.—Mrs. Barbara Green has set up a stall in city market where she distributes donated foodstuffs to needy persons without charge.

She says the plan, in which commercial firms are co-operating, has proved successful, and she would like to see it operated in other cities.

Cards are distributed to eligible persons by the City Welfare Department and nearly all have been used to get supplies from Mrs. Green's stall.

In one day Boy Scout's delivered 15 hampers filled with fruit, meat, home baking, butter, eggs and other goods. About 600 pounds of tomatoes, 200 pounds of beans, crates of lettuce, watermelons, carrots, apples, cherries, potatoes and other produce were received.

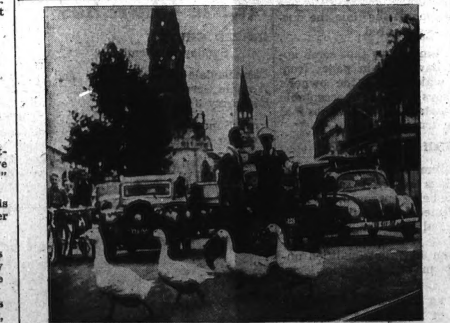

Question Whether Hen Being Helpful

DUNCAN, B.C.—Mrs. F. W. Kingston doesn't have to collect the eggs in her henhouse.

Mrs. Kingston says the hen, instead of getting down to the job, spends her time rolling eggs from other nests into her own.

That would be fine, Mrs. Kingston says, but the hen eats them as well.

Claims Wonder Drug Will Cure Smut In Grain

EDMONTON.—A University of Alberta scientist has discovered that antibiotics—the wonder drugs which cure a host of human diseases—also cure diseased crops.

The scientist—Dr. A. W. Henry—told farmers attending the annual university plant science department visitors' day that actidione will cure smut in grains.

Actidione is produced from the same organisms which produces streptomycin, an antibiotic used in curing many human diseases.

Dr. Henry said he soaked smut-diseased oats in a solution of 10 parts of actidione to 1,000,000 parts of water.

None of the treated oats showed smut.

Dr. Henry used farmers' seed drill samples of oats collected by district agriculturists. He said 90 per cent. of several hundred samples collected were diseased with smut.

"The project still is in an experimental stage," Dr. Henry said, "but it shows complete control of oat smut—one of the most difficult of plant diseases to control by seed treatment."

He said antibiotics would be much safer to use than mercury compounds which many farmers now use.

Alberta's Crop Of Alfalfa Hit By Black Stem

LETHBRIDGE, ALTA.—Plant pathologists said that a disease known as black stem of alfalfa is more serious than usual this year because of wet weather.

E. J. Hawn of the Dominion Laboratory at Lethbridge said the disease is widespread in Lethbridge and Brooks areas of Alberta this year.

Dr. G. B. Sanford, plant pathologist at Edmonton, said the disease also is severe in some parts of northern and central Alberta.

Black stem of alfalfa is caused by a fungus which develops best in cool, wet periods. Alberta has 266,000 acres of alfalfa this year. Black stem can cut production value by half.

A study of black stem is being made at the plant pathology laboratory in Saskatoon. So far no control method is known. Dr. Sanford said a resistant variety of alfalfa will have to be developed.

Treasures Worth Fabulous Sum Lent To Toronto Art Gallery

TORONTO. — The largest emerald in the world — big as a clenched fist — is at the Toronto Art Gallery this month. It was hollowed out in the 17th century to make a perfume jar for a queen's dressing table. In an upstairs room stands the cradle of the King of Rome—son of the Emperor Napoleon. Crusted with gold and inlaid with mother-of-pearl, it was presented to Napoleon on the birth of his son by the citizens of Paris.

The two items are part of a travelling collection of European art treasures loaned to the gallery by the Kunsthistorisches Museum of Vienna — the Austrian state museum.

Valued at $80,000,000, the collection consists of paintings, armor, tapestries and sculpture and work in gold, silver, ivory, bronze and precious stones. There are 131 paintings—many world-famous—mostly by Flemish, Italian and Spanish artists of the 16th and 17th centuries.

Sidney Key, curator of the gallery, says the $80,000,000 is merely an insurance estimate.

"Every item in the collection is unique and irreplaceable," he says. "One painting, 'The Artist In His Studio,' by the Dutch master, Jan Vermeer, is valued at $2,000,000. But it can no more be replaced than can Westminster Abbey."

The collection was assembled over a period of four centuries by members of the Hapsburg family who at one time ruled Europe from the Mediterranean to the Baltic and whose dominion extended to the East Indies and to America.

From the walls of the gallery, princes and kings, knights in gold-embossed armor, royal stripplings in satin and brocade and here and there a gentleman unknown, stare haughtily at the visitor.

In one corner a life-size bust of King Philip II of Spain—cast by Giovanni Stanetti—stands in natural colors—frowns moodily across the centuries. King Philip launched the Spanish Armada against England.

The Italian painter Titian—counted with Michelangelo one of the two greatest painters of the Renaissance—was a shrewd judge of character. His portrait of Pope Paul III—the pope who sponsored the Jesuit order at the time of the Protestant reformation—shows an aged but able man, simply suited to guide the church through those troubled times.

To look at the paintings in the gallery is to recall famous names—Raphael, Van Dyck, Titian, Rembrandt, Vermeer, and many others.

Armed guards patrol the corridors of the gallery, and the visitors wait outside. They keep a special eye on the star of the show.

It is a 15-pound emerald made of beaten and hammered gold and enameled in blue and black. It was made for King Francis I of France

Second Federal Budget Slated For Fall Session

OTTAWA.—A federal budget, Canada's second of the current fiscal year, will be brought down by Finance Minister Abbott in the fall session of parliament.

Government sources say it will be a special budget, as opposed to the government's regular annual financial accounting, in the same sense as the "baby" budget introduced at the special session last September.

That budget was required because of the outbreak of the Korean war and the stepped-up tempo of Canada's defense preparations.

This one will be necessitated by the arrangements for financing the government's regular annual financial accounting, in the same sense as the "baby" budget introduced at the special session last September.

CANOEING ON STREET—While drought conditions have prevailed in British Columbia and parts of Manitoba, Edmonton and much of Alberta have experienced the wettest summer in years. Torrential downpours have made lanes of many streets in newly-developed sections of Alberta's capital. Here is a family group canoeing on a new residential street in Edmonton.

ANTI-INFLATION FORMULA — Wrong guessing on part of Ottawa planners in 1945, when they released price controls and planned for a depression, has caused Canada's inflationary economy, according to Stuart Armour, Canada's wartime gasoline controller and now economic adviser to president of Steel Company of Canada.

He believes that real value of inflation is government expenditure, along with drastic cuts in government expenditures as the only solution to rising cost of living.

Asphalt Paving Completed On Road Sections

Approximately 189 miles of asphalt paving now is under construction or has been completed in Saskatchewan's 1951 highway construction program, according to a bureau of publications release.

Sections already completed are: No. 6 from Southey west and south 9 miles; No. 2 from St. Louis to Prince Albert—20 miles; No. 35 from Qu'Appelle to Fort Qu'Appelle—19 miles.

Asphalt paving is under construction on No. 1 from Sinitaulta to Melfort; from east to Parkburg to Val Jean; and a contract has been let for paving from Erinfeld to west of Rush Lake. On No. 9 paving is being done from Yorkton to Canora—30 miles and on No. 11 from Bladworth to Dundurn—35 miles.

So far this year contracts have been let for 701 miles of subgrade, 258 miles of gravel surfacing, 176 miles of base course construction and 189 miles of asphalt paving. Of this, 117 miles of subgrade construction, 80 miles of base and 61 miles of asphalt paving are on the Trans-Canada highway. There are approximately 90 construction outfits engaged on the work.

Calgary's First And Only Movie Too Real For Patrons

CALGARY. — The handsome hero leaped over and kissed the heroine as she casually produced her trusty guitar and played a tune to the wide-eyed moviegoers over Lake Louise.

Then, as the sun sank slowly, they rode away together to the Calgary exhibition grounds.

The scene was Calgary's first movie set. The date: 1927.

It was Calgary's lone entry into the motion picture business—a root-in-tooth epic called "His Destiny".

All that remains of it now is a brilliantly-colored booklet describing the "stupendous story of the foothills of Alberta" that was "sincere and convincing, abounding in thrilling surprises."

Neal Hart, the cowboy gladiator man of the 20s, was the star. He was also the director and in the movie was called upon to stop a wild horse stampede.

The rest of the cast was hometown talent. Joe Big Plume, chief of the Carce tribe, played an Indian chief. Inspector James Spaulding of the R.C.M.P. was a mounted police inspector. And somehow, Viscount Willington, then Governor-General of Canada, appeared in publicity as the Governor-General of Canada.

One of her accomplishments in the film was riding a demopet — the wagon, not the political adherent — down the streets of Calgary to a ranch.

The sun porch of the Palliser hotel was one of the scene ranch houses. The city court house was another.

But as the booklet put it, "His Destiny was more than a picture; it was grim reality that arouses every human emotion and causes amazement at the startling situations that follow in rapid succession."

The only trouble was that it was too grimly real and amazing for the patrons.

World's Wheat Carryover Is Slightly Higher

OTTAWA.—Wheat supplies in the four main wheat-producing countries left for export and carryover at July 1 totalled 691,000,000 bushels, slightly above last year's total of 685,000,000, the bureau of statistics reported in its monthly review of the world situation.

The report showed that the United States held 295,000,000 bushels compared with 297,000,000 last year; Canada 210,000,000 compared with 129,000,000, Australia 67,000,000 against 92,000,000, and Argentina 19,000,000 against 46,000,000.

Based on conditions at June 1 last, the eighth consecutive billion-bushel wheat crop was forecast for the United States. Production of all wheat was placed at 1,070,000,000 bushels, consisting of 707,000,000 bushels of winter wheat and 363,000,000 bushels of spring wheat.

"In Canada," the report said, "cutting of the winter wheat crop is well advanced, with an estimated 913,000 acres to be harvested in Ontario. While no official estimate of yields will be available until Aug. 15, it is evident that some reduction from earlier expectations will result from rather extensive damage by the Hessian fly."

Current indications are for some reduction in the Australian and, possibly, in the Argentine wheat crops. In Australia growing conditions are generally satisfactory although some reduction in acreage appears to have taken place. A preliminary estimate places this year's crop at 171,000,000 bushels, given average growing conditions. In Argentina, on the other hand, moisture reserves have been seriously depleted, especially in Cordoba and Santa Fe, and as a result acreage reductions in these areas have been estimated by the trade at around 40 per cent.

Network Of Asphalt Roads For Alberta

EDMONTON.—A network of asphalt highways traversing Alberta north and south with east-west asphalt links is the provincial government's aim, Minister of Highways Gordon Taylor said. To give access to the main highways from other points, $25 million in grants, based on $3 for $1 supplied by the municipality, has been approved this year. When current work is completed on No. 2 Highway near the U.S. border, the first major north-south route will be established—hard-surfacing from the boundary to about 60 miles north of Edmonton. Others will be developed as the population grows he said. An estimated $4 million will be spent on the Trans-Canada highway this year.

Staff Sgt. A. G. Evans of the Provost Corps displayed his powers at the carnival staged last week by the Gayland Shows. From St. Paul Journal—

While helping her husband hay, Mrs. Mike Gadowsky, 83, of Lac Bellevue, fell off the rack she was loading to break her back Sunday afternoon. Atop the load receiving hay, she bent over and while doing so, felt a small muscular pain in her back which made her lose balance at the same time the horses moved. Falling about five or six feet to the ground, the elderly lady fractured her back.

First shipment of 1951 grain delivered in St. Paul was made on Thursday morning to the Alberta Wheat Pool Elevator. It was Oll malting barley, weighing 50 lbs. to the bushel. The grain was combined from swathing on the farm of Leon Fontaine, who now has the distinction of being first man to reap part of the district's bumper crop.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

Like Harvesting Farm Service

Handling Tough Grain on Farms

A Tough Job. There is no easy way of drying grain on the farm. The average farm is not equipped with grain-drying machinery, or to turn and clean large quantities of tough grain. Consequently, to keep tough grain in condition, farmers must make the best possible use of the one important natural factor in their favour, namely, a cold, dry climate.

How to Prevent Losses. As farmers know only too well, tough grain is likely to go out-of-condition when over high moisture and high temperature conditions occur. These are the conditions which favour the development of mild, mites and insects—the real enemies of stored grain.

Here are a few practical hints which, if followed, will help to prevent losses in farm-stored tough grain. (1) Make sure the granary is weather-proof and well ventilated. (2) Examine all grain stocks every two weeks. Remember, the larger the bin, the greater the danger. (3) Watch for damp spots, warm spots, and surface crusting or clumping. (4) If trouble starts, get busy at once. Cool the grain by moving it during very cold weather from one bin or place to another. Better still, run it through a fanning mill or through a threshing machine or combine, with cylinder teeth removed. Quick action will pay.

Tough farm-stored grain, like stolen goods, is "hot stuff to handle." The sooner you get rid of it the better. Plan on moving your "tough" grain to market as quickly as possible. For detailed information on the protection of farm-stored grain write to the Stored Products Insect Laboratory, Winnipeg.

Fair Fight Card Staged in Killam Last Wednesday

(From The Viking News)

Quite a number of fans from here took in the first boxing card promoted by the Killam Legion held in the Killam arena last Wednesday evening. It was estimated that upwards of one thousand people were in attendance.

With Sid James announcing the program got underway on the dot of 8:30 with the first preliminary, when two little Thomas boys, Edward and Sunny, weight 48 lbs., opened the fistie festivities with a three rounder that proved a popular draw.

Carleton Thomas of Killam, and Dave Clark of Strome, weight 90 lbs., gave the fans something to cheer about in another three round bout in which Clark decisioned the clever Killam boy by a close margin.

Jack Sear of Killam proved no match for Dick Heisler of Strome in the third event, in the 125 lb. class, when Heisler scored a TKO over his Killam opponent in the second round when referee Tommy Hamilton of Alliance saw that Sears was groggy from blows that drew claret from his nose and cheek.

Two more Killam mitt artists, George Spiller and Ken Grant, in the 155 to 165 lb. class, stepped three lively rounds that ended in a draw.

The fifth bout brought together Pat Gibson of Ponoka and Billy Small of Red Deer, weighing in the 140 to 150 lb. class. Both displayed some training and experience, and from our corner in the arena, Pat had the best of the Ponoka brawler.

In the sixth bout, Art Hart of Red Deer got the nod over Gord Strong of Lacombe in the 125 to 135 lb. class. Hart showed a lot of boxing skill and took the last three rounds of a four round go to decision the Lacombe puncher.

In the semi-final, Lindsay Guild of Strome, weight 185 lbs. solid, furnished opposition for Billy Maclell of Edmonton, 184 lbs., in one of the most stirring bouts of the evening. Lindsay, looking more like Tony Galento, surprised the crowd with his deceptive style against his slender opponent in a six rounder rouser that had the fans rolling off the plank seats. Guild's heavy punching and clever use of tactics in the pinches, got the decision, but a lot of the fans voiced their disapproval. Guild was the C.R.U. champ of the army in the last scrap overseas.

The main event brought together George Hart of Red Deer, 155, and Cocky Ego, 150, of Edmonton, two rivals who held a decision over each other. These boys were well matched and went eight rounds in which they displayed a pretty fair knowledge of the game of self defence. In one torrid round, the sixth, both registered knock downs. Ego got the nod on a close decision.

Curly Kid Archibald of Irma, refereed the semi-final and main bout, while Tommy Hamilton, colourful Negro sportsman from Alliance, took care of the prelims. The Legion announced that they intended to hold another boxing card before freeze-up.

World of Wheat

Harvesting Malting Barley

Barley growers are often disappointed to find that in spite of all the extra expense they have laid out in buying good seed their crop of malting barley fails to win a malting grade. This is because in most cases the farmer has neglected to pay attention to certain fine details in the harvesting and threshing of his crop. The crop should be cut sufficiently high so that enough straw is left to support the swath. The swath should be laid on the stubble in such a way that the heads do not fall through and lie on the ground, for soil moisture will damage the kernels.

When cut with a binder the sheaves should be picked up as quickly as possible and built carefully into stacks. Some farmers cap the stacks and thresh the caps separately for feed.

Malsters require the kernels to be plump, well matured and of a rich golden colour. A crop of barley intended for the malting grades, therefore, must not be cut until it is dead ripe, never on the green side. Montcalm and Olli it has been found may be allowed to mature to a much riper state than is usual with O.A.C. 21 or other varieties.

SALUTES ALBERTA INDUSTRIES AND SERVICES

Here is a Salute to: School Teachers

ALBERTA'S SCHOOL TEACHERS

It's back to school Tuesday morning for six thousand adults. They are the teachers of Alberta's one hundred and sixty-eight thousand school-age children, and they share with the youngsters mixed feelings of hope and apprehension for the days which lie ahead.

There's only thing about teaching children... life rarely becomes hum-drum. Daily contact with the young of the human family brings such a measure of challenge, triumph and worry that it sharpens the mental reflexes.

Excitement in the air! Mother's busy getting school clothes spic and span, the kids are having a last fling at freedom, while Dad braces himself for the usual morning scuffle in the bathroom... and six thousand teachers are hoping for an average class of bright, disciplined children, all eager to learn their lessons... The crisp September air fosters such optimistic delusions!

What mystical compulsion turns a man or woman to teaching, with its constant drain on mental and physical resources, heavy responsibilities and small salary? The answer is first, a liking for young people, then an inquiring and knowledgeable mind, and third, the zest to impart learning. And the reward?—well, there's that boy or girl who may become an outstanding citizen—and also there's the apple often left on teacher's desk.

Alberta's Department of Education is progressive—it has shown leadership in many ways, not the least of which is the enlarged school districts, with the many efficient consolidated schools.

The teaching profession is big business. Last year Alberta paid over fourteen and a quarter million dollars in salaries for this important work—an investment in good citizenship. Not all our children go to regular schools—there are over ten thousand studying by mail through a specialized correspondence school which reaches the physically handicapped as well as children living in isolated districts. Alberta is unique, in that trained personnel as monitors have constantly guided the education of our youngsters throughout the teacher shortage during the war, and since.

The little red schoolhouse will eventually join the horse-and-buggy of happy memory, for the school-bus and consolidated school are taking over... but it will always be symbolic of rural education and teaching stamina.

The bells will soon ring in every city, town and country school in Alberta... When we give our departing children a pat on the head, let's reserve a pat on the back for the fine men and women waiting to take them over for the coming school year.
